

The Drawing and Painting department of this college has been regularly organizing sculpture workshops to enhance skill development in students. The students on the eve of Ganesh Chaturthi make artistic Ganesh idols. Dr. Pratima Raikvar imparts special training to the students. The students are adept in these artistic activities and are prone to incessant prolonged work. In this way under the able guidance of its head, the department is flourishing day by day. The department is thriving and striving to attain excellence with full devotion, practice and sincerity. Nearly 30 students participate in such workshops every year. The year 2018 was fully dedicated to commemorate the birth anniversary of Mahatma Gandhi. In that context, a bright and talented student of our college, Anand Parmar constructed a portrait of Mahatma Gandhi by using 2 caps of waste plastic bottles in 1500 square feet area in black and white color. This too is an eco-friendly best practice of the department. This portrait was formed in 2 days. These idols are then kept for exhibition and then are sold and the money acquired is distributed in students. Certificates are also given to students along with prizes. The main aim of the department is environment protection, skill development and self reliance. 2016, 2017 and 2018 have been epoch making years for the department. This is a step for making Incredible India and self sufficient also. Since 2016, a new tradition of sculpture workshop began which was environment friendly and gave boost to so many talented students to grow and exhibit their talent.
